FIRES IN 7 STATES OF ATLANTIC SEABOARD

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS DAMAGE CAUSED BY FIRES

MAJORITY OF WIDESPREAD CONFLAGRATIONS ARE NOW UNDER CONTROL

FIRES ALMOST SIMULTANEOUS, INCENDIARISM SUSPECTED IN SOME CASES
(By United Press)

Almost the entire north Atlantic seaboard—a region famous for its picturesque beauty—gazed today on acres of blackened ruins that lay in the wake of destructive fires.

Seven states were directly affected by the property damage, which ran into millions of dollars. Although a majority of the widespread conflagrations were under control, officials feared further loss in some sections should winds continue today.

Curiously, the fires were almost simultaneous, although incendiary was suspected only in one or two cases.

Generally, damage resulted from apparently harmless grass fires which were quickly fanned into destructive blazes by brisk winds. Although the fire left its mark from Delaware to New Hampshire, no deaths were reported, and few injuries.

The most disastrous fire occurred at Nashua, N. H., where sparks from a locomotive started a $5,000,000 conflagration. The city was virtually under martial law today.

Hundreds were driven from their homes in New Jersey when firemen found their only weapon—back fire—was useless by the wind. Many dwellings were destroyed, as well as hundreds of acres of valuable forest land.

Forest fires in Delaware were reported under control after several days' fighting.

Smaller grass fires were reported in Pennsylvania but were brought under control without appreciable damage.

Approximately a 40-mile section of Long Island was laid waste by grass fires and much valuable property was ruined. More than 3,000 persons aided firemen. Similar fires occurred on Staten Island, leveling more than 100 cottages.

More than 15,000 acres were burned in the woodlands of Massachusetts. Henry Ford's historic Wayside Inn was miraculously saved from the fire.

Fires in sections of Rhode Island were reported under control today after a night of fighting in which hundreds of volunteers joined.

BLACKENED LANDSCAPE STRETCHES FOR MILES

New York, May 5.—A blackened landscape stretching for miles over northern New Jersey and parts of Long Island and Staten Island was that remained today to mark the path of a series of brush and grass fires which flamed into disastrous proportions yesterday, causing damage which will run into millions of dollars.

Fanned by stiff winds, the fires completely erased one hamlet, destroyed hundreds of homes and took the New York fire department out of the city on the first master alarm it has received in 20 years.

Firemen still were fighting several sporadic blazes today, but all were understood to be under control. No deaths were reported from any of the damaged sections, although several were overcome by smoke and Fire Warden Jesse Borzoth of New Gretna, N. J., suffered severe burns.

Long Island and northern New Jersey were the hardest hit. In the former section the fire spread over a 40-mile front and, aided by the wind, gained a width of 20 miles in some places. It threatened eight towns and destroyed nearly 100 summer cottages, most of them as yet unoccupied.

New Jersey officials described the fire as the most disastrous in the history of the state. More than a score of brush fires racing before a north-west wind reduced the pine belts of seven counties to ashes, and erased the hamlet of Penbryn while its inhabitants fled through the smoke with what valuables they could gather. Other towns of similar size were reported seriously endangered.

In the counties of Cumberland, Salem, Gloucester, Camden, Burlington and Atlantic, thousands of persons were forced from their dwellings and fire departments from Trenton, Atlantic City and Newark were called to aid. In Ocean county alone 20,000 volunteers faced the fire on a dozen fronts.

The most destructive conflagration on Staten Island destroyed the Oakwood Beach summer colony, burning a two-story frame hotel and more than 100 cottages. Other smaller fires were reported under control at South Beach, Great Kills, Rossville, and Hugenot.

NASHUA, N. H., IS UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Nashua, N. H., May 5.—This city was virtually under martial law today as 260 national guardsmen, with orders to "shoot to kill" looters, patrolled the scene of yesterday's $5,000,000 conflagration.

Fresh fears gripped stricken citizens today when, more than 14 hours after

6TH CANDIDATE ON G. O. P. TICKET FOR GOVERNOR

DR. EIVIND KLAIVENESS OF ST. PAUL FILED PAPERS TODAY

KNUTE WEFELD FILES FOR F. L. NOMINATION FOR U. S. SENATE

St. Paul, Minn., May 5.—(U.P.)—A sixth candidate for the republican nomination for governor and Knud Wefeld, farmer-labor endorsed candidate for U. S. senator, filed today with Mike Holm, secretary of state.

The candidate for the gubernatorial nomination was Dr. Eivind Klaveness, St. Paul.

Wefeld's filing today definitely ended all rumors that he might not run for the office despite his repeated assurances that he would file.

Others filing today included August Bloomquist, Newport, democrat, for railroad and warehouse commissioner; John E. Patterson, St. Cloud, state senator, forty-fifth district.

Olson Determan, Litchfield, secretary of state, farmer-labor ticket; William J. Gallagher, Minneapolis, representative in congress, 10th district, democrat; Godfrey G. Goodwin, Cambridge, representative in congress, 10th district, republican; Erling Swenson, Minneapolis, representative in congress, 10th district, farmer-labor; August Bloomquist, Newport, railroad and warehouse commissioner, democrat.

Thomas E. McAllister, Pine River, state senator, 52nd district; Mike Kraper, Belview, state representative at large in 14th district; Nels M. Evenson, Osakis, state senator, 47th district; Erick Nordin, Brunswick, state senator, 55th district; Peter Hoglin, Washish, state representative, 62nd district; Theodore S. Sien, Madison, state senator, 24th district.

MISS AMY JOHNSON BEGINS SOLO FLIGHT

Crofton, Airdrome, London, May 5.—(U.P.)—Miss Amy Johnson, 22, began a solo flight from London to Australia at dawn today.

Miss Johnson planned to make her first stop tonight at Vienna. The young woman was flying a Gypsy Moth plane, and said her route would take her to Constantinople and Bagdad.

Forced to Land in Muddy Field, Aviator Injured

Minneapolis, May 5.—(U.P.)—Forced to land in a muddy plowed field near the Robbinsdale airport because of a strong wind, Ray Marchitt, 24, today was recovering from injuries. In landing the gear snapped and threw the pilot's head against the instrument board. He was knocked unconscious and taken to Northwestern hospital.

The fire started, wind-scattered embers from the still smoldering blaze kindled a new fire in the dry woodlands surrounding the Nashua Country Club. Fatigued firemen who had remained on duty throughout the night were rushed to the scene, which was not far from the point of origin of Sunday's devastating blaze and succeeded in conquering the flames before they assumed serious proportions.

Early today an incendiary added to the terror by attempting to set fire to a store half a mile from the fire area. A fireman patrolling the district extinguished it.

Two square miles of Nashua's residential and industrial districts lay in blackened and tangled ruins today. It was the worst fire in New Hampshire's history.

Irretrievably not a life was lost, but an enormous amount of valuable property was laid waste. Approximately 30 buildings were destroyed, most of them were dwellings, but there were also two churches, a convent, a school and one of the city's biggest factories. An entire lumberyard was consumed so quickly that it might have been a box of tooth picks.

Nearly 700 persons made homeless by the conflagration were cared for during the night by friends or were provided with temporary accommodations by authorities.

Optimistic Plan for Adjourning Congress on June 14, 6 Weeks Hence, Secures Support

ADOPTED BY SENATE AND HOUSE LEADERS

CONTEMPLATES FINAL PASSAGE OF TARIFF BILL WITHIN NEXT 2 WEEKS

RATIFICATION OF LONDON NAVAL CONFERENCE TREATY IN ANOTHER WEEK

By PAUL R. MALLON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, May 5.—An optimistic plan for adjourning congress June 11, six weeks hence, has been adopted by senate and house leaders.

The plan contemplates final passage of the tariff bill within the next two weeks, ratification of the London conference naval treaty in another week and passage later of supply bills and important minor legislation including transfer of prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department.

A vote is expected in the senate tomorrow on the nomination of John J. Parker to be a supreme court justice. Final disposition of this pending business will clear the way for a start on the legislative program with the tariff heading the list.

The delay in the voting on the Parker nomination has been due to the tactics of administration leaders who desired to stave off rejection of the nomination, hoping enough pressure might be brought to bear to change the voting lineup. The indications are their efforts have been unsuccessful, although the poll margins revealing a five to eight vote majority against the nominee, are not conclusive enough to remove doubt about the final outcome.

The administration's fight for confirmation was today in the hands of Senator Waterman, republican, Colorado, who has prepared a lengthy address. Opponents of Parker hope to force a vote after Waterman's speech if they find an opportunity.

A typically stirring senatorial contest is expected over the tariff bill which arrived from the house today. The lumber rates, flexible tariff provisions and the debenture are the only major items of controversy between the two chambers. The senate vote was close on free lumber, but it was decisive for repeal of the flexible provision and in favor of the debenture.

As the house has conclusively declined to accept these two latter items and President Hoover has intimated he might veto the debenture project, the fight centers on the question of whether the whole tariff bill should be sunk or whether the senate should again give in to the house and the president.

The flexible repealer and the debenture are coalition measures written into the bill by democrats and independent republicans. These groups are confident they can reject the present bill and send it back again to a conference committee representing the senate and the house with instructions to senate conferees that they must stand by the two amendments.

The issue probably will be settled

CONGRESS TODAY

Senate
Continues debate on Parker nomination. Commerce committee resumes hearings on rivers and harbors bill.

House
Takes up bills on consent calendar. Insular affairs committee begins hearings on Philippine independence bill.

Advocates Government Acquisition of Erie Canal

Washington, May 5.—(U.P.)—Government acquisition and operation of the Erie canal was advocated before the senate commerce committee today by Major General Lytle Brown, chief of army engineers.

Brown denied the canal is a "white elephant" and asserted its acquisition by the federal government would not interfere with the proposed Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway project.

BANDITS FIRE THREE SHOTS AT CUSTOMER

St. Paul, May 5.—(U.P.)—Firing three shots at the floor when B. A. Torney smiled and slowly obeyed their order to raise his hands, two bandits took $1,200 in jewelry and $190 in cash last night from the drug store of Winn E. Waltraff. The men, however, did not attempt to take any money from Torney who had entered to make some purchases during the holdup. The men escaped in an auto.

one way or the other by a few votes, but if the coalition wins, the adjournment plans will be cancelled.

Less strenuous and shorter will be the conflict over the naval treaty. Hearings are to begin Wednesday before the senate foreign relations committee. No definite opposition to the treaty has developed.

Despite Mr. Hoover's repeated appeals for action on the seven pending prohibition enforcement reform bills recommended by the Wickersham crime commission, the plans of the congressional leaders take into account only one—the measure now pending in the senate for transfer of enforcement. Two bills providing increased prison facilities, also requested by the president, will probably be passed without much opposition.

Hearings on the $10,000,000 rivers and harbors bill were to be resumed today by the senate commerce committee.

The senate campaign expenditures committee planned a meeting today to consider the testimony last week of Rep. Ruth Hanna McCormick, showing she spent approximately $250,000 to obtain the republican senatorial nomination in Illinois. The committee planned also to consider the political situation in Pennsylvania where Secretary of Labor Davis and Senator Joseph R. Grundy are seeking senatorial nominations by republicans.

Philippine independence was the issue before the house insular affairs committee today as it met to consider the bill of Rep. Knutson, republican, Minnesota, to withdraw American control of the islands.

'DEADWOOD DICK' DIES IN HOSPITAL OF HOME TOWN

WAS HERO OF GENERATION OF DIME NOVEL READERS YEARS AGO

CANCER, NOT OLD AGE, BROUGHT DEATH TO THE OLD PLAINSMAN

Deadwood, S. D., May 5.—(U.P.)—"Deadwood Dick" Clark, hero of a generation of dime novel readers, died today in St. Joseph's hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Cancer, not old age, brought death to the plainsman in the end of a life that reads like a history of the old west. He was 84 years old.

"Deadwood Dick" was almost the last of the actual and fabled heroes of the west. Unlike other pioneers, Clark lived to see his exploits among Indians, road agents and bad men grow into the legend class. Virtually all his life was spent in the west fighting Indians, riding in the pony express, guarding stage coaches and guiding United States cavalry.

His personal and fabled exploits formed the theme of 67 paper-backed thrillers, written by Edward L. Wheeler, sometimes known as Ned Buntline. These volumes, usually forbidden to be read by younger generations two or three decades ago, were read by boys and oftentimes girls for years until the plainsman became as well-known as Buffalo Bill Cody, "Wild Bill" Hickok and Kit Carson.

"Deadwood Dick" himself used to chuckle over the stories that he had been a road agent until his reform and that he had spent his early days robbing stage coaches and rescuing maidens in distress.

As a matter of fact Clark had only one wife, to whom he was always devoted, although at least one of the paper-backed thrillers had him married to Calamity Jane, whose fame as a marksman and gambler still is a legend.

Always a picturesque figure, "Deadwood Dick" clung to the long curls, high boots, beaded buckskin suit and 45 calibre pistol hung at his right side.

Strangely enough it bore no notches in contrast to Wild Bill's. Dick always claimed he never killed a white man and he considered Indians of too little significance to count.

But during the day Deadwood sat beside the stage coach drivers in the bandit infested Black Hills as guard not one ounce of bullion ever was stolen while he rode the Cheyenne-Deadwood stage, shotgun poised and cocked.

Fort Stockton, Tex., May 5.—(U.P.)—Investigation was launched today into the crash of a low-flying, passenger-laden airplane Sunday within two blocks of the business district, in which three Texans met death. The dead were Smoky Adams, pilot, Ozona; Jack Thorp, passenger, Fort Stockton; and Mangum Johns, passenger, of Imperial.

TWO SISTERS DIE WITHIN FEW MINUTES OF EACH OTHER

Milwaukee, Wis., May 5.—(U.P.)—Two sisters who died within a few minutes of each other were buried today after double funeral services. Mrs. Ellen Weber, 67, died Sunday as her sister, Mrs. Agnes Popp, stood holding her hand. A moment later Mrs. Popp fell dead.

PHILIPPINES INDEPENDENCE GETS NOTICE

SERIOUS ATTENTION PAID BY A REPUBLICAN-DOMINATED CONGRESS

STRONG ECONOMIC FORCES AUGMENT PLEAS OF ISLANDERS FOR FREEDOM

Washington, May 5.—(U.P.)—Philippine independence, long a cornerstone of democratic policy, is receiving serious attention from a republican-dominated congress, as strong economic forces augment pleas of the islanders for freedom.

Three congressional hearings on the independence issue are scheduled this week. The first was planned for today before the house insular affairs committee which is considering a bill of Representative Knutson, republican, Minnesota, to grant complete autonomy to the Philippines.

The second has been arranged for Wednesday, when Secretary of Navy Adams and Secretary of War Hurley have been asked to appear before the senate insular committee. On the same day, the house immigration committee is to take up the Welch bill to exclude Filipino labor.

Philippine political leaders have gathered here to plead before these bodies for freedom. Forgetting party differences, Juan Sumangin, democratic leader of the Philippines senate; Speaker Manuel Roxas of the house, and House Democrat Leader Pedro Gil are to be heard.

Earthquake Registers On Regis Seismograph

Denver, Colo., May 5.—(U.P.)—An earthquake of third degree intensity lasting 43 minutes was recorded today on Regis college seismograph. It began at 7:45 mountain standard time, reached maximum intensity at 8:13 and subsided at 8:28. Seismologists said it was at least 3,000 miles distant, most likely not on the North American continent, but a marine tremor.

FOREIGN FLASHES

London, May 5.—(U.P.)—Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of King George, was progressing favorably today with a broken collar bone which he received while playing polo Saturday. Lord Mountbatten was captain of the naval officers' team, and his injury made it necessary for his team to be scratched from the play for the fortnightly challenge cup which was scheduled to begin today.

Madrid, May 5.—(U.P.)—Student rioting at Madrid university was renewed today when anti-monarchist demonstrators clashed with police.

One student was killed and nine others seriously injured in the fighting.

The fatal shooting at the medical school occurred during a serious outbreak which made the vicinity resemble a battlefield. Students threw rocks and improvised hand grenades against 100 policemen who fought them with pistols.

Ceuta, Morocco, May 5.—(U.P.)—Cheers and boos mingled at the reappearance in the bullring of Sidney Franklin, Brooklyn bull fighter who was put out of the ring temporarily by injuries last March when he turned his back on an angry Andalusian bull.

Franklin "came back" at Jerez, Spain, on Saturday, despite the bandages which still cover a serious gore he received at Madrid. He followed up that appearance with another here yesterday, and each time met six good bulls with his fellow matador, Satorio Toron.

The candid Spanish audience which filled the stands here was as free with its boos as with its cheers when the bull seemed to be having the upper hand. It frequently hissed the American for toying with the bull too long, and once Franklin was warned by the president of the fight that if he did not kill the animal within five minutes, its life would be spared and Franklin disgraced. The next thrust of the muleta killed the animal.

ALMOST 100 BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN INJURED IN THE BLAST

DAMAGED PLANT OF BIBBYS OIL CAKE MILLS IN CENTER OF CITY

Liverpool, Eng., May 5.—(U.P.)—A terrific explosion extensively damaged the Bibbys oil cake mills in the central part of the city today, setting fire to the three upper stories. At least six persons were believed dead and 100 persons were believed to have been injured.

All traffic in the district was suspended and stretcher bearers removed the injured to ambulances and private cars. One of the injured men's clothes was torn off and his skin blackened. The explosion was caused by fires that originated in the silos department in a new extension of the plant.

The injured were taken to the Northern hospital, a steady stream of automobiles and ambulances plying from the scene of the blast to the hospital.

SPECTACULAR FIRE AT OIL REFINERY

McCook, Ill., May 5.—A spectacular fire, punctuated by explosion, swept the Inter-Ocean Sales Corporation oil refinery this afternoon, sending billows of black smoke rolling toward the city of Chicago.

The thirty employees of the corporation fled before the flames. The flames raced so rapidly from one oil tank to another that all the firemen who could be summoned were powerless to stem them. They only could heap sand on the edges of the flames hoping in that way to check the spread. The heat was so intense that firemen could not get near enough to use water.

The flames started when a truck loading at one of the tanks caught fire. Several workmen released the brakes and sent the truck in a flaming streak down hill but too late to keep the nearby tank from catching fire.

A woman switchboard operator, whose name was not learned in the excitement, stuck to her post within 150 feet of the heart of the flames until the heat snapped the wires. She warned many of the workmen who fled to safety.

The glare of the flames topped with clouds of smoke were visible as far away as Oak Park on the western edge of Chicago.

FINDING OUT TRUTH ABOUT LIE DETECTOR

Chicago, May 5.—(U.P.)—University of Chicago scientists are going to find out the truth about the lie detector.

Psychology and physiology professors started today to test the reliability of the detector, a little mechanical device which is claimed to reveal to police whether a suspect truthfully answers questions.

The tests are expected to result either in general acceptance of the device or its abandonment.

The exhaustive investigation of the detector was suggested by August Vollmer, Berkeley, Calif., police chief and professor of police administration at the university.

Vollmer said he had used the detector in 10,000 cases with remarkable success but he hesitated to advocate its general adoption until scientific tests proved its absolute reliability.

PROBING MURDER OF UNKNOWN MAN AT REDWOOD FALLS

Redwood Falls, Minn., May 5.—(U.P.)—Authorities today were seeking the owner of an automobile, partially destroyed by fire, in their investigation of the alleged murder of an unidentified man near here 10 days ago.

The car was found burned shortly before the finding of the man's body under a straw stack. Red stains, believed by sheriff's deputies to be blood stains, were found on the floor of the car.

The body was found after a farmer had burned the straw stack as he cleared his fields for spring planting. Examination showed that the man's skull was fractured.

MORE SUICIDES THAN DEATHS BY CARS IN MISSOURI

Jefferson City, Mo., May 5.—(U.P.)—More persons committed suicide in Missouri last year than were killed in automobile accidents, according to vital statistics prepared and announced today by the state health department.

There were 727 suicides compared with 591 in 1928. There were 706 persons killed in automobile accidents.

TORNADO SWEEPS MISSOURI

BANDITS FIRE THREE SHOTS AT CUSTOMER

St. Paul, May 5.—(U.P.)—Firing three shots at the floor when B. A. Torney smiled and slowly obeyed their order to raise his hands, two bandits took $1,200 in jewelry and $190 in cash last night from the drug store of Winn E. Wallraff. The men, however, did not attempt to take any money from Torney who had entered to make some purchases during the holdup. The men escaped in an auto.

one way or the other by a few votes, but if the coalition wins, the adjournment plans will be cancelled.

Less strenuous and shorter will be the conflict over the naval treaty. Hearings are to begin Wednesday before the senate foreign relations committee. No definite opposition to the treaty has developed.

Despite Mr. Hoover's repeated appeals for action on the seven pending prohibition enforcement reform bills recommended by the Wickersham crime commission, the plans of the congressional leaders take into account only one—the measure now pending in the senate for transfer of enforcement. Two bills providing increased prison facilities, also requested by the president, will probably be passed without much opposition.

Hearings on the $10,000,000 rivers and harbors bill were to be resumed today by the senate commerce committee.

The senate campaign expenditures committee planned a meeting today to consider the testimony last week of Rep. Ruth Hanna McCormick, showing she spent approximately $250,000 to obtain the republican senatorial nomination in Illinois. The committee planned also to consider the political situation in Pennsylvania where Secretary of Labor Davis and Senator Joseph R. Grundy are seeking senatorial nominations by republicans.

Philippine independence was the issue before the house insular affairs committee today as it met to consider the bill of Rep. Knutson, republican, Minnesota, to withdraw American control of the islands.

'DEADWOOD DICK' DIES IN HOSPITAL OF HOME TOWN

WAS HERO OF GENERATION OF DIME NOVEL READERS YEARS AGO

CANCER, NOT OLD AGE, BROUGHT DEATH TO THE OLD PLAINSMAN

Deadwood, S. D., May 5. — (U.P.) — "Deadwood Dick" Clark, hero of a generation of dime novel readers, died today in St. Joseph's hospital after an illness of several weeks.

Cancer, not old age, brought death to the plainsman in the end of a life that reads like a history of the old west. He was 84 years old.

"Deadwood Dick" was almost the last of the actual and fabled heroes of the west. Unlike other pioneers, Clark lived to see his exploits among Indians, road agents and bad men grow into the legend class. Virtually all his life was spent in the west fighting Indians, riding in the pony express, guarding stage coaches and guiding United States cavalry.

His personal and fabled exploits formed the theme of 67 paper-backed thrillers, written by Edward L. Wheeler, sometimes known as Ned Buntline. These volumes, usually forbidden to be read by younger generations two or three decades ago, were read by boys and sometimes girls for years until the plainsman became as well-known as Buffalo Bill Cody, "Wild Bill" Hickok and Kit Carson.

"Deadwood Dick" himself used to chuckle over the stories that he had been a road agent until his reform and that he had spent his early days robbing stage coaches and rescuing maidens in distress.

As a matter of fact Clark had only one wife, to whom he was always devoted, although at least one of the paper-backed thrillers had him married to Calamity Jane, whose fame as a marksman and gambler still is a legend.

Always a picturesque figure, "Deadwood Dick" clung to the long curls, high boots, beaded buckskin suit outfit of his youth. For years the heavy .45 calibre pistol hung at his right side.

Strangely enough it bore no notches in contrast to Wild Bill's. Dick always claimed he never killed a white man and he considered Indians of too little significance to count.

But during the day Deadwood sat beside the stage coach drivers in the bandit infested Black Hills as guard not one ounce of bullion ever was stolen while he rode the Cheyenne-Deadwood stage, shotgun poised and cocked.

Fort Stockton, Tex., May 5.—(U.P.)—Investigation was launched today into the crash of a low-flying, passenger-laden airplane Sunday within two docks of the business district, in which three Texans met death. The dead were Smoky Adams, pilot, Ozona; Jack Thorp, passenger, Fort Stockton, and Mangum Johns, passenger, of Imperial.

TWO SISTERS DIE WITHIN FEW MINUTES OF EACH OTHER

Milwaukee, Wis., May 5.—(U.P.)—Two sisters who died within a few minutes of each other were buried today after double funeral services.

Mrs. Ellen Weber, 67, died Sunday as her sister, Mrs. Agnes Popp, stood holding her hand. A moment later Mrs. Popp fell dead.

PHILIPPINES INDEPENDENCE GETS NOTICE

SERIOUS ATTENTION PAID BY A REPUBLICAN-DOMINATED CONGRESS

STRONG ECONOMIC FORCES AUGMENT PLEAS OF ISLANDERS FOR FREEDOM

Washington, May 5.—(U.P.)—Philippine independence, long a cornerstone of democratic policy, is receiving serious attention from a republican-dominated congress, as strong economic forces augment pleas of the islanders for freedom.

Three congressional hearings on the independence issue are scheduled this week. The first was planned for today before the house insular affairs committee which is considering a bill of Representative Knutson, republican, Minnesota, to grant complete autonomy to the Philippines.

The second has been arranged for Wednesday, when Secretary of Navy Adams and Secretary of War Hurley have been asked to appear before the senate insular committee. On the same day, the house immigration committee is to take up the Welch bill to exclude Filipino labor.

Philippine political leaders have gathered here to plead before these bodies for freedom. Forgetting party differences, Juan Sumalpong, democratic leader of the Philippines senate; Speaker Manuel Roxas of the house, and House Democrat Leader Pedro Gil are to be heard.

Earthquake Registers On Regis Seismograph

Denver, Colo., May 5.—(U.P.)—An earthquake of third degree intensity lasting 43 minutes was recorded today on Regis college seismograph. It began at 7:45 mountain standard time, reached maximum intensity at 8:13 and subsided at 8:28. Seismologists said it was at least 3,000 miles distant, most likely not on the North American continent, but a marine temblor.

FOREIGN FLASHES

London, May 5.—(U.P.)—Lord Louis Mountbatten, cousin of King George, was progressing favorably today with a broken collar bone which he received while playing polo Saturday. Lord Mountbatten was captain of the naval officers' team, and his injury made it necessary for his team to be scratched from the play for the fortnightly challenge cup which was scheduled to begin today.

Madrid, May 5.—(U.P.)—Student rioting at Madrid university was renewed today when anti-monarchist demonstrators clashed with police.

One student was killed and nine others seriously injured in the fighting.

The fatal shooting at the medical school occurred during a serious outbreak which made the vicinity resemble a battlefield. Students threw rocks and improvised hand grenades against 100 policemen who fought them with pistols.

Ceuta, Morocco, May 5.—Cheers and boos mingled at the reappearance in the bullring of Sidney Franklin, Brooklyn bull fighter who was put out of the ring temporarily by injuries last March when he turned his back on an angry Andalusian bull.

Franklin "came back" at Jerez, Spain, on Saturday, despite the bandages which still cover a serious gash he received at Madrid. He followed up that appearance with another here yesterday, and each time met six good bulls with his fellow matador, Satorio Toron.

The candid Spanish audience which filled the stands here was as free with its boos as with its cheers when the bull seemed to be having the upper hand. It frequently hissed the American for toying with the bull too long, and once Franklin was warned by the president of the fight that if he did not kill the animal within five minutes, its life would be spared and Franklin disgraced. The next thrust of the muleta killed the animal.

AT LEAST SIX PERSONS ARE BELIEVED DEAD

ALMOST 100 BELIEVED TO HAVE BEEN INJURED IN THE BLAST

DAMAGED PLANT OF BIBBYS OIL CAKE MILLS IN CENTER OF CITY

Liverpool, Eng., May 5.—(U.P.)—A terrific explosion extensively damaged the Bibbys oil cake mills in the central part of the city today, setting fire to the three upper stories. At least six persons were believed dead and 100 persons were believed to have been injured.

All traffic in the district was suspended and stretcher bearers removed the injured to ambulances and private cars. One of the injured men's clothes was torn off and his skin blackened. The explosion was caused by fire that originated in the silos department in a new extension of the plant.

The injured were taken to the Northern hospital, a steady stream of automobiles and ambulances plying from the scene of the blast to the hospital.

SPECTACULAR FIRE AT OIL REFINERY

McCook, Ill., May 5.—A spectacular fire, punctuated by explosion, swept the Inter-Ocean Sales Corporation oil refinery this afternoon, sending billows of black smoke rolling toward the fringes of Chicago.

Thirty employees of the corporation fled before the flames. The flames raced so rapidly from one oil tank to another that all the firemen who could be summoned were powerless to stem them. They only could heap sand on the edges of the flames hoping in that way to check the spread. The heat was so intense that firemen could not get near enough to use water.

The flames started when a truck loading at one of the tanks caught fire. Several workmen released the brakes and sent the truck in a flaming streak down hill but too late to keep the nearby tank from catching fire.

A woman switchboard operator, whose name was not learned in the excitement, stuck to her post within 150 feet of the heart of the flames until the heat snapped the wires. She warned many of the workmen who fled to safety.

The glare of the flames topped with clouds of smoke were visible as far away as Oak Park on the western edge of Chicago.

FINDING OUT TRUTH ABOUT LIE DETECTOR

Chicago, May 5.—(U.P.)—University of Chicago scientists are going to find out the truth about the lie detector. Psychology and physiology professors started today to test the reliability of the detector, a little mechanical device which is claimed to reveal to police whether a suspect truthfully answers questions.

The tests are expected to result either in general acceptance of the device or its abandonment.

The exhaustive investigation of the detector was suggested by August Vollmer, Berkeley, Calif., police chief and professor of police administration at the university.

Vollmer said he had used the detector in 10,000 cases with remarkable success but he hesitated to advocate its general adoption until scientific tests proved its absolute reliability.

PROBING MURDER OF UNKNOWN MAN AT REDWOOD FALLS

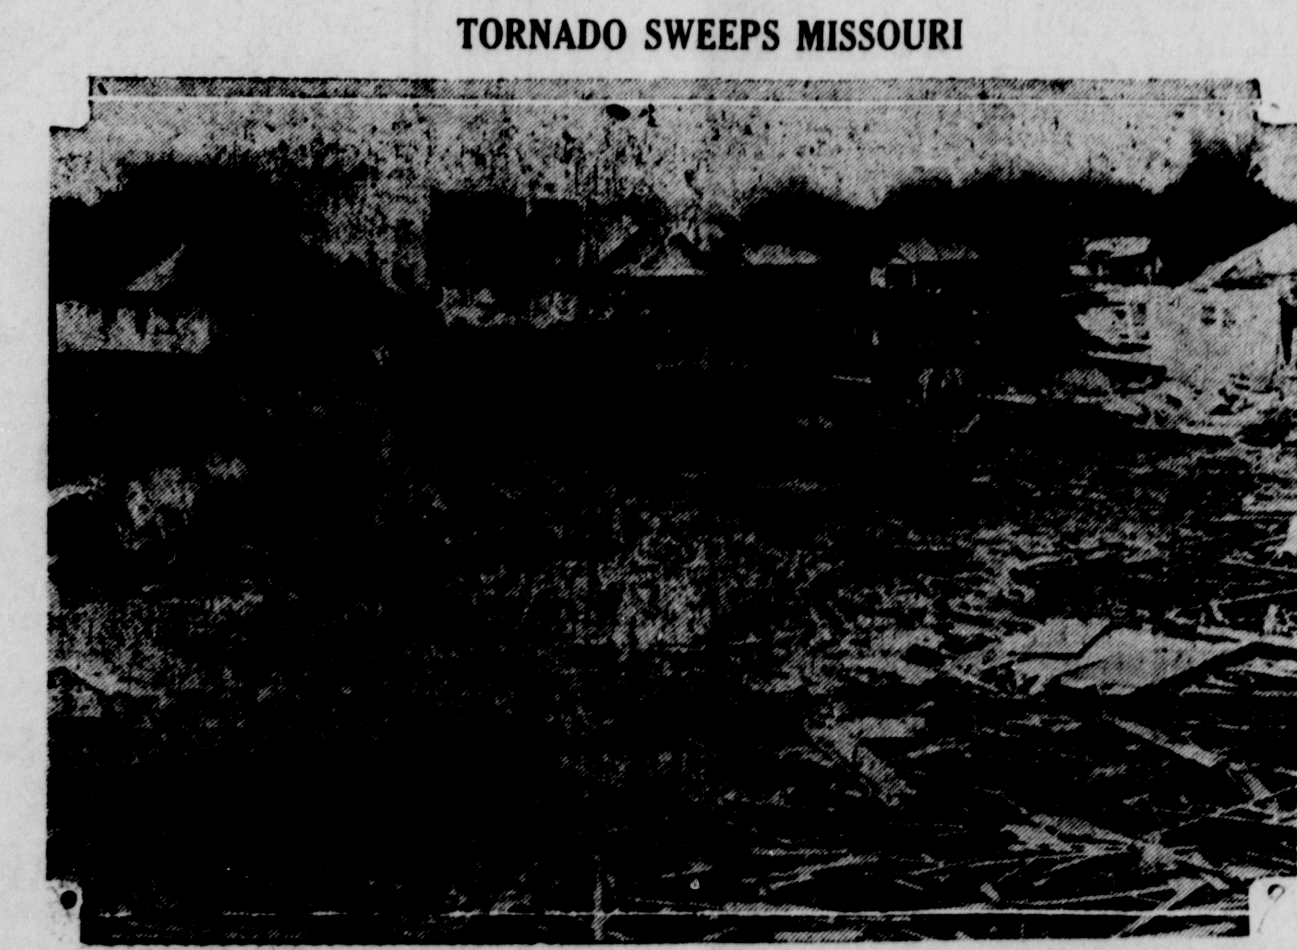

Redwood Falls, Minn., May 5.—(U.P.)—Authorities today were seeking the owner of an automobile, partially destroyed by fire, in their investigation of the alleged murder of an unidentified man near here 10 days ago.

The car was found burned shortly before the finding of the man's body under a straw stack. Red stains, believed by sheriff's deputies to be blood stains, were found on the floor of the car.

The body was found after a farmer had burned the straw stack as he cleared his fields for spring planting. Examination showed that the man's skull was fractured.

MORE SUICIDES THAN DEATHS BY CARS IN MISSOURI

Jefferson City, Mo., May 5.—(U.P.)—More persons committed suicide in Missouri last year than were killed in automobile accidents, according to vital statistics prepared and announced today by the state health department. There were 727 suicides compared with 591 in 1928. There were 706 persons killed in automobile accidents.

Norborne, Missouri, was in the part of the sporadic tornadoes which swept through the Central West Thursday, taking toll of 23 lives, injuring scores, and wreaking heavy property damage. Here is shown all that was left of nine dwellings in the part of the storm which swept Norborne.

SPENT WEEK AT LAKE

Oawensa Camp Fire Girls at J. A. McKay Cottage on Gull Lake

The Oawensa Camp Fire girls of the Harrison school spent the week end at the J. A. McKay cottage on Gull Lake where they earned several nature and camp craft honors.

Saturday morning they took an early morning hike, making a list of the birds seen along the way. During the hike they saw 23 different birds, learned to name some by their songs and some by their flight.

The girls then cooked their breakfast out of doors, toasting bread by the fire and frying eggs and bacon on a hot stone. Maps of their hikes were made and stories were written telling of what they had observed along the way. They also learned to name several trees.

In the evenings they built bonfires on the lake shore, sang their camp fire songs and enjoyed the sunset. They also carved totem poles with queer figures on them, and learned to imitate ten bird whistles, thereby earning a nature craft bead. The whistles were taught by Miss Vanasek, their guardian.

The following is a list of some of the nature honors earned:

Keep a list of at least six birds seen during migration.

Tell from personal observation, the value to man of six birds.

Identify eight birds by their flight.

Record, from personal observation, the food of six birds.

Know the songs and calls of ten birds.

These are the camp honors earned: Build three different kinds of fire in the open, using not more than two matches.

Fry an egg on a hot stove.

Make a pen-and-ink map of hike.

Carve a totem pole.

One frock with two such fashion points as this frock is entirely too lucky. The cape collar should be enough for any frock, but this model also has pleats in the skirt! Such a frock will be clever in almost any material, from printed cotton to crepe or georgette. According to the material chosen, it will be appropriate for spectator sports, street wear, or informal afternoons.

Odd Showers Not Miracles

Tornadoes and waterspouts passing over bodies of shallow water are quite capable of sucking fish up into the clouds and depositing them at distant places along the path of the storm. Showers of fish are thus easily explained, and falls of various other objects, animate and inanimate, are accounted for in a similar manner.

SPENT WEEK AT LAKE

Oawensa Camp Fire Girls at J. A. McKay Cottage on Gull Lake

The Oawensa Camp Fire girls of the Harrison school spent the week end at the J. A. McKay cottage on Gull Lake where they earned several nature and camp craft honors.

Saturday morning they took an early morning hike, making a list of the birds seen along the way. During the hike they saw 23 different birds, learned to name some by their songs and some by their flight.

The girls then cooked their breakfast out of doors, toasting bread by the fire and frying eggs and bacon on a hot stone. Maps of their hikes were made and stories were written telling of what they had observed along the way. They also learned to name several trees.

In the evenings they built bon-fires on the lake shore, sang their camp fire songs and enjoyed the sunset. They also carved totem poles with queer figures on them, and learned to imitate ten bird whistles, thereby earning a nature craft bead. The whistles were taught by Miss Vanasek, their guardian.

The following is a list of some of the nature honors earned:

Keep a list of at least six birds seen during migration.
Tell from personal observation, the value to man of six birds.
Identify eight birds by their flight.
Record, from personal observation, the food of six birds.
Know the songs and calls of ten birds.
Know the contour of five forest trees.
These are the camp honors earned: Build three different kinds of fire in the open, using not more than two matches.
Fry an egg on a hot stove.
Make a pen-and-ink map of hike.
Carve a totem pole.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

PLEATS AND A CAPE

One frock with two such fashion points as this frock is entirely too lucky. The cape collar should be enough for any frock, but this model also has pleats in the skirt! Not content with that, it buttons down the front in the most demure manner, and belted itself snugly around the high waistline, with the bodice blousing in the back, just like the very best Paris frocks. Such a frock will be clever in almost any material, from printed cotton to crepe or georgette. According to the material chosen, it will be appropriate for spectator sports, street wear, or informal afternoons.
Pictorial Printed Pattern No. 5241. Sizes 14 to 42, 35 cents.

Odd Showers Not Miracles

Tornadoes and waterspouts passing over bodies of shallow water are quite capable of sucking fish up into the clouds and depositing them at distant places along the path of the storm. Showers of fish are thus easily explained, and falls of various other objects, animate and inanimate, are accounted for in a similar manner.

ODLAND TO ADDRESS P. T. A. GROUP TONITE

Will Speak on "The Founding of Minnesota" at High School

AUTHOR OF SEVERAL BOOKS

Mr. Odland is Being Presented as a Special Lecturer by the University of Minnesota

Martin W. Odland has been secured as the speaker of the evening for the annual combined meeting of the several Parent Teachers Associations to be held on Thursday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock in the Washington high school auditorium. Mayor Frank E. Little will preside.

Mr. Odland has chosen for his subject "The Founding Fathers of Minnesota" and he begins his talk with the founding of Fort Snelling in 1819. He portrays the characters of Joseph R. Brown, Henry H. Sibley and Alexander Ramsey; and then describes the first Minnesota legislature, the Treaty of Traverse des Sioux, the first Minnesota state legislature in 1857 and the circumstances leading up to the occasion when Minnesota won the glory of tending to President Lincoln the first pledge of loyalty and help at the beginning of the Civil war.

Mr. Odland is being presented to various groups in Minnesota as a special lecturer on Minnesota history by the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota. He is also the author of several books and has served in the Minnesota legislature. He has had extensive experience as a public speaker.

The citizens of Brainerd and the surrounding community are urged by the Central Council of Parent Teachers Associations to attend this meeting and it is their belief that those who attend will secure much valuable information regarding the early history of Minnesota.

There is no admission charge and the council hopes that a large audience will attend.

Peat Litter for Barns Is Very Satisfactory

Peat has proved very satisfactory as an absorbent and deodorizer in the dairy barn at the North Central experiment station at Grand Rapids, Minn., where it has been used for several years. It has been found very effective in conserving bedding and saving the liquid manure, which contains about 50 per cent of the nitrogen and 70 per cent of the potash excreted from the animal body.

Now peat is being tried out in the station's swine and poultry departments, several inches of dry peat being placed in the sleeping quarters for the swine and the poultry pens and then covered with straw. Thus far, the results have been fully as satisfactory as in the dairy barn. The pens and sleeping quarters are exceptionally free from moisture and cold floor drafts, the station reports.

Farmers Warned as to Alfalfa Seed Supplies

Buyers of alfalfa, clover, and sweet clover seeds are warned by C. P. Bull, in charge of the state laboratory at University farm, St. Paul, to be on their guard in buying seed supplies for next spring. He says that purchasers should examine closely all seeds of the kinds named, to make sure that they contain no red, green, or violet colored seeds. If such colors are present, at least a part of the seed is from Europe, South America, or Canada and the hardness of such seeds may be questioned.

Mr. Bull calls attention to the fact that the pure seed act requires that all agricultural seeds offered for sale and samples of seed supplies which are stored elsewhere must be labeled so that the buyer may know exactly the characteristics and conditions of the supplies.

Similar warnings are being sent out in other northwestern states.

There is too a certain charm and distinction to their singing and love making blending perfectly with the youthful, carefree, romantic tempo of this picture.

And, in addition to the undeniable charm and talents of these two players, there is a highly amusing, fast-moving story through which Miss Gaynor and Farrell romp with agility and evident enthusiasm.

ODLAND TO ADDRESS P. T. A. GROUP TONITE

Will Speak on "The Founding of Minnesota" at High School

AUTHOR OF SEVERAL BOOKS

Mr. Odland is Being Presented as a Special Lecturer by the University of Minnesota

Martin W. Odland has been secured as the speaker of the evening for the annual combined meeting of the several Parent Teachers Associations to be held on Thursday evening, May 8, at 8 o'clock in the Washington high school auditorium. Mayor Frank E. Little will preside.

Mr. Odland has chosen for his subject "The Founding Fathers of Minnesota" and he begins his talk with the founding of Fort Snelling in 1819. He portrays the characters of Joseph R. Brown, Henry H. Sibley and Alexander Ramsey; and then describes the first Minnesota legislature, the Treaty of Traverse des Sioux, the first Minnesota state legislature in 1857 and the circumstances leading up to the occasion when Minnesota won the glory of tending to President Lincoln the first pledge of loyalty and help at the beginning of the Civil war.

Mr. Odland is being presented to various groups in Minnesota as a special lecturer on Minnesota history by the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota. He is also the author of several books and has served in the Minnesota legislature. He has had extensive experience as a public speaker.

The citizens of Brainerd and the surrounding community are urged by the Central Council of Parent Teachers Associations to attend this meeting and it is their belief that those who attend will secure much valuable information regarding the early history of Minnesota.

There is no admission charge and the council hopes that a large audience will attend.

Peat Litter for Barns Is Very Satisfactory

Peat has proved very satisfactory as an absorbent and deodorizer in the dairy barn at the North Central experiment station at Grand Rapids, Minn., where it has been used for several years. It has been found very effective in conserving bedding and saving the liquid manure, which contains about 50 per cent of the nitrogen and 70 per cent of the potash excreted from the animal body.

Now peat is being tried out in the station's swine and poultry departments, several inches of dry peat being placed in the sleeping quarters for the swine and the poultry pens and then covered with straw. Thus far, the results have been fully as satisfactory as in the dairy barn. The pens and sleeping quarters are exceptionally free from moisture and cold floor drafts, the station reports.

Farmers Warned as to Alfalfa Seed Supplies

Buyers of alfalfa, clover, and sweet clover seeds are warned by C. P. Bull, in charge of the state laboratory at University farm, St. Paul, to be on their guard in buying seed supplies for next spring. He says that purchasers should examine closely all seeds of the kinds named, to make sure that they contain no red, green, or violet colored seeds. If such colors are present, at least a part of the seed is from Europe, South America, or Canada and the hardness of such seeds may be questioned.

Mr. Bull calls attention to the fact that the pure seed act requires that all agricultural seeds offered for sale and samples of seed supplies which are stored elsewhere must be labeled so that the buyer may know exactly the characteristics and conditions of the supplies.

Similar warnings are being sent out in other northwestern states.

Milk as Medicine

WE have always regarded milk as a drink, as a liquid food, and never had the idea that it was possible to view it as medicine which has a curative effect in degenerative diseases of mankind, as reported by the Minneapolis Journal.

The degenerative diseases of middle age are the scourge of the present. Modern medical science has amazingly reduced infant mortality and has controlled most of the infectious plagues. But hearts and other vital organs seem to be wearing out even more rapidly than ever.

Wherefore there is understandable interest in the announcement made to the County Medical Society at Philadelphia by Dr. Weston A. Price, Cleveland scientist, that ten years of experimentation have revealed Vitamin D to be a preventive, and in some cases a cure, for the degenerative diseases of mankind.

A prime source of Vitamin D is milk, particularly the milk of grass eating cows, and the butter made from the cream of such milk. It follows, then, that a diet rich in butter and milk, and particularly the butter and milk of grass fed cows in the spring and summer, should contribute importantly to the well being and the longevity of the individual, if the Cleveland scientist's conclusions are sound.

In addition to Dr. Price's scientific evidence, there exists considerable circumstantial evidence lending plausibility to his theory. American adults notoriously consume little milk or milk products, however liberally they may provide their children with adequate supplies. And the adult American male notoriously neglects that other prime source of Vitamin D, leafy green vegetables. Most of the Continental European races far outdo us Americans in the consumption of milk and milk products, particularly cheese, and in the consumption of fresh vegetables. And the sudden wearing out of the human machine in middle life is a phenomenon that seems far more common among us than among the Europeans.

If time proves that Vitamin D does reliably protect the individual against these so called degenerative diseases, then the American race will wear a beaten path to the dairyman's door. Butter and milk surpluses will no longer worry the American farmer, once his fellow men are convinced that health and longevity may be purchased for the trifling price of a few extra pounds of butter and bottles of milk.

To Pave No. 2 Trunk Highway

BRAINERD is interested in an authoritative announcement that No. 2 state trunk highway will be paved from Duluth to Fargo by 1932. Such paving will connect Brainerd with its legitimate trade territory extending eastward to the Cuyuna iron range, Aitkin and beyond, and westward to Staples and beyond. It will bring more business to town, to our stores, hotels, restaurants, theatre, etc. The gain made by Brainerd will be counterbalanced, in a way, by Brainerd travel being able to go eastward and westward at all seasons and will bring better communication between these parts.

Duluth is greatly interested in this extension of Trunk Highway No. 2. The Duluth News Tribune says editorially that Commissioner Charles M. Babcock of the state highway department, brought some good news to Duluth Tuesday when he assured a gathering of Duluth business men and others that State Highway No. 2 will be paved from Duluth to the North Dakota line by 1932.

The paving of Highway No. 2 is one of the most important and pressing road project in the state and will be of especial value to Duluth and the northern part of the state.

Minnesota has a north and south trunk highway traversing it that is mostly paved. No. 1 is paved from a point near the Iowa border, north through the Twin Cities and Duluth to Two Harbors on the North Shore. Eventually this road will be paved to the Canadian border.

The great need now is for a paved highway across the state from east to west, and when No. 2 is paved it will furnish this route. Grading will be completed this year and next and the entire road put in condition for paving. When it is completed two years hence, as promised by Mr. Babcock, there will be continuous paving from the Head of the Lakes to Fargo. This will put Duluth in closer communication, as far as transportation and travel are concerned, with a rich farming community and many thriving towns along the route.

Paving No. 2 will give people to the west just as good a road to Duluth as they now have to the Twin Cities. It is something that Duluth and the territory and towns along No. 2 are entitled to.

National Music Week

THIS is National Music Week and the Brainerd Choral club is opening the week with a joint recital with the advanced piano pupils of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone, to be held tonight at the Elks Temple.

Music lovers can commemorate the week by attendance at the recital and showing their interest in the development of the best in music locally. The week is one to arouse interest and greater appreciation of the sphere of music in the home and in recitals.

With the increase of radio there has also grown up a greater appreciation of the best in musical literature and the taste of the public has been noticeably elevated.

National Egg Week, May 1 to 7

THE Northern Pacific Railway this week is participating in National Egg Week, May 1 to 7. Modern railroad transportation plays a large part in distributing eggs and poultry from the great centers of production to the markets of the world. Eggs are shipped from the Pacific coast in refrigerator cars and delivered to the large cities of the east in fresh condition. A. W. Thomson, superintendent of dining car service on the Northern Pacific, has prepared for the dining cars National Egg Week menus which feature egg dishes.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED THUS FAR.

YOUNG and unsophisticated Eve Reads meets Kenneth Wilmer, noted artist. They fall in love. Eve's friend, Mary, tries to convince her the match is unsuitable. Ken introduces Eve to his unconventional artist colony set. When Ken leaves a party with Fifi Devore, Eve is hurt. Nory O'Rell, author friend of Ken's also interested in Eve, drives her to Fifi's. Ken is there and rushes to Eve, telling of his longing for her. After painting Eve the next day, Ken gives a party. Eve is thrilled when Ken and Nory toast her. The first misunderstanding comes when Eve tells of meeting Nory and his tea party. Ken is jealous. They make up and all goes well, until the next get-together, when in a discussion on marriage, Ken calls it "shackles." Eve is disappointed, and that night tells him it is "good-bye." Unable to stand the separation, Eve goes to Ken. He is overjoyed and proposes marriage, explaining his opinion did not apply to them. Eve is blue when Mary leaves for New York without wishing her happiness. She and Ken visit Eve's relatives in Lakeview. Although Eve had hoped for a church wedding, she and Ken are married quietly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

IT WAS Mary who said they must hurry; Mary who found something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue for the bride to wear; Mary who helped Eve into the white chiffon and the white satin slippers and who stood at the gate crying as they drove away.

And Mary was waiting when they returned from the parsonage of the Methodist church, holding her breath before the light that seemed to shine from their faces and spread about them like a white glory.

They were to go up to Lakeview for a brief honeymoon; Uncle Mat had insisted upon this and had left to visit a cousin in New Haven so they might have all the romance of the old home to themselves.

So along toward evening Eve put on the little beige suit she had worn when Ken first saw her and packed her bag beside his in the back of the car and they drove over to the club.

And there they found the celebration well under way since Mary had telephoned Elma what had happened and asked that they should not wait for Eve and Ken who would not remain long at the club-house. The tribe received them with gay shouts of congratulation and drank a round of toasts to their happiness. And they left just as the orchestra swung into the first fox-trot.

A long drive through the night then, filled with beauty, little broken murmurs, dreams. And when finally Ken stopped the car before the old New England house he came around to Eve and, lifting her in his arms, carried her up the steps and through the open door.

If her wedding was a topsy-turvy affair, her honeymoon was all that Eve had envisioned in her most radiant dreams. Ken and herself in the blossoming solitude of this fine old home—for Mrs. Wiggins, a romantic soul, kept to herself so strictly that they saw her only at meal times.

Ken and Eve wandering hand in hand through dewy mornings, gathering great nosegays of poppies and cornflowers and daisies. Driving up the steep roads of Mount Thor afternoons, there to sit at the edge of a blue mountain lake under rosy clouds of laurel blossoms and the lacy green of ferns. Musing through the warm dusk of evenings, too lazily content to plan ahead or recall what had gone.

There was the day he knelt at her side, white-faced, very solemn, pressing her hands to his heart. "Do you know how much I love you, Eve? You are like a Madonna lily to me, holy and sweet. All my life I shall feel this way, as if a shrine had opened to give me you. I never have loved before, sweetheart, never imagined what love could do. Adorable darling—"

She treasured that moment. There was the day they invaded the attic, pulling out old trunks and boxes, ransacking everything, laughing like children over what they found. She came upon a little old wooden cradle and he discovered her dreaming beside it, hope and tenderness in her face. And he must bring his fingers and sketch her as she lay there, hand extended as if to touch a little head, bending over a bit as if she listened for a little cry.

He worked in a passion of inspiration at his sketches, giving up only when the light changed. "This is what I wanted, Eve, a subject I could feel. One day I shall paint this and you'll hear what the critics have to say about your friend husband. What the world has to say about your friend husband's lovely wife."

She looked at the sketches, flushing with pleasure, and said he had made her much too beautiful. "You see with the eyes of love, Ken. I wish I really looked as you've made me."

And he answered in genuine astonishment that he had not half done her justice and that she was the most beautiful girl in the world.

And this, too, she treasured with a little prayer that he might believe it as long as they lived.

It was not until the beginning of the second week that they remembered to drive into the village and call at the post office for mail. There were no letters, of course, since they had kept their destination secret from all save Mary and Jimmy, but a great bundle of New York newspapers was waiting.

They took these up Mount Thor, opened them as they lounged on the warm, sandy shore of the lake.

Every paper carried the story of their wedding. Some of the accounts were on first pages, with Ken's picture and Eve's. Mary must have given them that school-girl photograph. Some printed reproductions of Ken's paintings and one carried a headline, "Artist Weds His Ideal" and, in smaller type, "Kenneth Wilmer and Miss Evelyn Reade, original of famous 'Wilmer Girl,' marry secretly."

"But Ken," Eve protested. "It isn't exactly true. I mean it wasn't quite secret—"

"Secret enough," he said, laughing. "Think what they'd have done if we'd had Elma's jazz band. The papers have given them that school-girl photograph. Some printed reproductions of Ken's paintings and one carried a headline, 'Artist Weds His Ideal' and, in smaller type, 'Kenneth Wilmer and Miss Evelyn Reade, original of famous 'Wilmer Girl,' marry secretly.'"

There was not, Eve soon saw, much about her; the stories were all about Ken. They told of his career, his sudden spring into something near fame three years before with the first of his idealized girl faces; they mentioned his youth, chuckled over his temperament, predicted a brilliant future for him.

Long before she had put down the last of the newspapers Eve had discovered this, that so far as the world was concerned she, herself, had no individuality whatever; she was merely Mr. Kenneth Wilmer's wife. She had married a successful artist, one by way of being a glorified figure, and so all her life she would be visible only in the reflection of that glory.

She lay on the white sand, thinking of this. It was not that she wished to shine for the world to see; she was satisfied to be no more than Ken's shadow for people generally. But what would be the effect on Ken of this? Might he some day grow a bit ashamed of her because she had no bright talent like other women he knew? "Ken," she said, "would you like me to try to do something? I used to write a little for the school paper—even took a prize once for a tiny story. I might develop something; surely I'd try, if you'd like this."

He was impatient all at once, running his fingers through his hair, snatching at a cigarette. "Gosh, Eve, don't begin that. It's a sort of insanity that seems to get everybody who mixes with artists and writers, that urge to do what they're doing, and it's just plain foolishness."

"I don't doubt," he declared, seeing her dashed look, "that you could write something. Almost anybody with a fair education can, but it takes more than this to make stuff move off a page and come alive. What I mean is if you've got it in you it's bound to come out no matter where you are or with whom even if you try to keep it back."

"Hundreds of women and men, too, hang around on the fringe, putting out dullish literature and art when they might get somewhere just being themselves. They think the will to do is talent and editors are fed up with them and you can't blame the editors. . . . I don't want to hurt you, darling."

"I'm not hurt. I only thought maybe you'd like me more—"

He kissed her, laughing, calling her a red-headed goose. "One bunch of temperament is enough in this family. Your old man couldn't stand it if you changed so much as one of those adorable freckles on your cunning nose."

"Freckles!" she squealed, and moved out of the sun. She said no more about writing, but her thought turned the idea; often and often she was to wonder if she might learn to write.

As they drove back through the village a husky voice boomed Ken's name and he drew up to the curb in answer to the frantic signal of a large, youngish woman who promptly climbed on the running-board and kissed him.

"I heard you were married, dear boy. And is this the bride?" A homely, mannish face turned to Eve and a big hand gripped hers as Ken introduced Miss Madge Morgan.

But Miss Morgan had only a moment's interest in little Mrs. Wilmer; she turned back to Ken and began to chatter shop in her booming, hail-fellow voice.

"I'm spending the Summer here at the Inn," she told him, "and you must come to tea tomorrow. And your wife, of course," she added as an afterthought.

And when Eve would have declined she saw that Ken really wished to accept and so made no objection though all night a feeling kept nagging at her that now the honeymoon had been invaded by the great world of her husband's of which she knew so little—that now the honeymoon was over.

But certainly they would have tea with the expansive Miss Morgan who was Ken explained, enormously wealthy and interested in art, if that was what he wished. She would learn to be interested in what interested him, to like what he liked—to play the game.

At Miss Morgan's tea party they encountered a fluffy blonde creature who was presented as Miss Pauline Southwick and always afterward addressed as Fuss.

Milk as Medicine

WE have always regarded milk as a drink, as a liquid food, and never had the idea that it was possible to view it as medicine which has a curative effect in degenerative diseases of mankind, as reported by the Minneapolis Journal.

The degenerative diseases of middle age are the scourge of the present. Modern medical science has amazingly reduced infant mortality and has controlled most of the infectious plagues. But hearts and other vital organs seem to be wearing out even more rapidly than ever.

Wherefore there is understandable interest in the announcement made to the County Medical Society at Philadelphia by Dr. Weston A. Price, Cleveland scientist, that ten years of experimentation have revealed Vitamin D to be a preventive, and in some cases a cure, for the degenerative diseases of mankind.

A prime source of Vitamin D is milk, particularly the milk of grass eating cows, and the butter made from the cream of such milk. It follows, then, that a diet rich in butter and milk, and particularly the butter and milk of grass fed cows in the spring and summer, should contribute importantly to the well being and the longevity of the individual, if the Cleveland scientist's conclusions are sound.

In addition to Dr. Price's scientific evidence, there exists considerable circumstantial evidence lending plausibility to his theory. American adults notoriously consume little milk or milk products, however liberally they may provide their children with adequate supplies. And the adult American male notoriously neglects that other prime source of Vitamin D, leafy green vegetables. Most of the Continental European races far outdo us Americans in the consumption of milk and milk products, particularly cheese, and in the consumption of fresh vegetables. And the sudden wearing out of the human machine in middle life is a phenomenon that seems far more common among us than among the Europeans.

If time proves that Vitamin D does reliably protect the individual against these so called degenerative diseases, then the American race will wear a beaten path to the dairyman's door. Butter and milk surpluses will no longer worry the American farmer, once his fellow men are convinced that health and longevity may be purchased for the trifling price of a few extra pounds of butter and bottles of milk.

To Pave No. 2 Trunk Highway

BRAINERD is interested in an authoritative announcement that No. 2 state trunk highway will be paved from Duluth to Fargo by 1932. Such paving will connect Brainerd with its legitimate trade territory extending eastward to the Cuyuna iron range, Aitkin and beyond, and westward to Staples and beyond. It will bring more business to town, to our stores, hotels, restaurants, theatre, etc. The gain made by Brainerd will be counterbalanced, in a way, by Brainerd travel being able to go eastward and westward at all seasons and will bring better communication between these parts.

Duluth is greatly interested in this extension of Trunk Highway No. 2. The Duluth News Tribune says editorially that Commissioner Charles M. Babcock of the state highway department, brought some good news to Duluth Tuesday when he assured a gathering of Duluth business men and others that State Highway No. 2 will be paved from Duluth to the North Dakota line by 1932.

The paving of Highway No. 2 is one of the most important and pressing road project in the state and will be of especial value to Duluth and the northern part of the state.

Minnesota has a north and south trunk highway traversing it that is mostly paved. No. 1 is paved from a point near the Iowa border, north through the Twin Cities and Duluth to Two Harbors on the North Shore. Eventually this road will be paved to the Canadian border.

The great need now is for a paved highway across the state from east to west, and when No. 2 is paved it will furnish this route. Grading will be completed this year and next and the entire road put in condition for paving. When it is completed two years hence, as promised by Mr. Babcock, there will be continuous paving from the Head of the Lakes to Fargo. This will put Duluth in closer communication, as far as transportation and travel are concerned, with a rich farming community and many thriving towns along the route.

Paving No. 2 will give people to the west just as good a road to Duluth as they now have to the Twin Cities. It is something that Duluth and the territory and towns along No. 2 are entitled to.

National Music Week

THIS is National Music Week and the Brainerd Choral club is opening the week with a joint recital with the advanced piano pupils of Mrs. W. A. M. Johnstone, to be held tonight at the Elks Temple.

Music lovers can commemorate the week by attendance at the recital and showing their interest in the development of the best in music locally. The week is one to arouse interest and greater appreciation of the sphere of music in the home and in recitals.

With the increase of radio there has also grown up a greater appreciation of the best in musical literature and the taste of the public has been noticeably elevated.

National Egg Week, May 1 to 7

THE Northern Pacific Railway this week is participating in National Egg Week, May 1 to 7. Modern railroad transportation plays a large part in distributing eggs and poultry from the great centers of production to the markets of the world. Eggs are shipped from the Pacific coast in refrigerator cars and delivered to the large cities of the east in fresh condition. A. W. Thomson, superintendent of dining car service on the Northern Pacific, has prepared for the dining cars National Egg Week menus which feature egg dishes.

WHAT HAS HAPPENED THUS FAR.

YOUNG and unsophisticated Eve Reads meets Kenneth Wilmer, noted artist. They fall in love. Eve's friend, Mary, tries to convince her the match is unsuitable. Ken introduces Eve to his unconventional artist colony set. When Ken leaves a party with Fifi Devoe, Eve is hurt. Nory O'Rell, author friend of Ken's also interested in Eve, drives her to Fifi's. Ken is there and rushes to Eve, telling of his longing for her. After painting Eve the next day, Ken gives a party. Eve is thrilled when Ken and Nory toast her. The first misunderstanding comes when Eve tells of meeting Nory and his tea party. Ken is jealous. They make up and all goes well, until the next get-together, when in a discussion on marriage, Ken calls it "shackles." Eve is disappointed, and that night tells him it is "good-bye." Unable to stand the separation, Eve goes to Ken. He is overjoyed and proposes marriage, explaining his opinion did not apply to them. Eve is blue when Nory leaves for New York without wishing her happiness. She and Ken visit Eve's relatives in Lakeview. Although Eve had hoped for a church wedding, she and Ken are married quietly.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVIII.

IT WAS Mary who said they must hurry; Mary who found something old, something new, something borrowed and something blue for the bride to wear; Mary who helped Eve into the white chiffon and the white satin slippers and who stood at the gate crying as they drove away.

And Mary was waiting when they returned from the parsonage of the Methodist church, holding her breath before the light that seemed to shine from their faces and spread about them like a white glory.

They were to go up to Lakeview for a brief honeymoon; Uncle Mat had insisted upon this and had left to visit a cousin in New Haven so they might have all the romance of the old home to themselves.

So along toward evening Eve put on the little beige suit she had worn when Ken first saw her and packed her bag beside his in the back of the car and they drove over to the club.

And there they found the celebration well under way since Mary had telephoned Elma what had happened and asked that they should not wait for Eve and Ken who would not remain long at the club-house. The tribe received them with gay shouts of congratulation and drank a round of toasts to their happiness. And they left just as the orchestra swung into the first fox-trot.

A long drive through the night then, filled with beauty, little broken murmurs, dreams. And when finally Ken stopped the car before the old New England house he came around to Eve and, lifting her in his arms, carried her up the steps and through the open door.

If her wedding was a topsy-turvy affair, her honeymoon was all that Eve had dreamed in her most radiant dreams. Ken and himself in the blossoming solitude of this fine old home—for Mrs. Wiggins, a romantic soul, kept to herself so strictly that they saw her only at meal times.

Ken and Eve wandering hand in hand through dewy mornings, gathering great nosegays of poppies and cornflowers and daisies. Driving afternoons, there to sit at the edge of a blue mountain lake under rosy clouds of laurel blossoms and the lacy green of ferns. Murmuring through the warm dusk of evenings, too lazily content to plan ahead or recall what had gone.

There was the day he knelt at her side, white-faced, very solemn, pressing her hands to his heart.

"Do you know how much I love you, Eve? You are like a Madonna lily to me, holy and sweet. All my life I shall feel this way, as if a shrine had opened to give me you. I never have loved before, sweetheart, never imagined what love could do. Adorable darling—"

She treasured that moment. There was the day they invaded the attic, pulling out old trunks and boxes, ransacking everything, laughing like children over what they found. She came upon a little old wooden cradle and he discovered her dreaming beside it, hope and tenderness in her face. And he must bring the cradles and sketch her as she looked down, hand extended as if to touch a little head, bending over a bit as if she listened for a little cry.

He worked in a passion of inspiration at his sketches, giving up only when the light changed. "This is what I wanted, Eve, a subject I could feel. One day I shall paint this and you'll hear what the critics have to say about your friend husband. What the world has to say about your friend husband's lovely wife."

She looked at the sketches, flushing with pleasure, and said he had made her much too beautiful. "You see with the eyes of love, Ken. I wish I really looked as you've made me."

And he answered in genuine astonishment that he had not half done her justice and that she was the most beautiful girl in the world.

And this, too, she treasured with a little prayer that he might believe it as long as they lived.

It was not until the beginning of the second week that they remembered to drive into the village and call at the post office for mail. There were no letters, of course, since they had kept their destination secret from all save Mary and Jimmy, but a great bundle of New York newspapers was waiting.

They took these up Mount Thor, opened them as they lounged on the warm, sandy shore of the lake.

Every paper carried the story of their wedding. Some of the accounts were on first pages, with Ken's picture and Eve's. Mary must have given them that school-girl photograph. Some printed reproductions of Ken's paintings and one carried a headline, "Artist Weds His Ideal," and in smaller type, "Kenneth Wilmer and Miss Evelyn Reads, original of famous 'Wilmer Girl,' marry secretly."

"But Ken," Eve protested. "It isn't exactly true. I mean it wasn't quite secret—"

"Secret enough," he said, laughing. "Think what they'd have done if we'd had Elma's jazz band. The papers have been pretty nice; see what they say about you: 'Beautiful daughter of old Connecticut family . . . popular in artist colony.'"

There was not, Eve soon saw, much about her; the stories were all about Ken. They told of his career, his sudden spring into something near fame three years before with the first of his idealized girl faces; they mentioned his youth, chuckled over his temperament, predicted a brilliant future for him.

Long before she had put down the last of the newspapers Eve had discovered this, that so far as the world was concerned she, herself, had no individuality whatever; she was merely Mr. Kenneth Wilmer's wife. She had married a successful artist, one by way of being a glorified figure, and so all her life she would be visible only in the reflection of that glory.

She lay on the white sand, thinking of this. It was not that she wished to shine for the world to see; she was satisfied to be no more than Ken's shadow for people generally. But what would be the effect on Ken of this? Might he some day grow a bit ashamed of a nonentity wife, look down on her because she had no bright talent like other women he knew?

"Ken," she said, "would you like me to try to do something? I used to write a little for the school paper—even took a prize once for a tiny story. I might develop something; surely I'd try, if you'd like this."

He was impatient all at once, running his fingers through his hair, snatching at a cigarette. "Gosh, Eve, don't begin that. It's a sort of insanity that seems to get everybody who mixes with artists and writers, that urges to do what they're doing, and it's just plain d—"

"Don't doubt," he declared, seeing her dashed look, "that you could write something. Almost anybody with a fair education can, but it takes more than this to make stuff move off a page and come alive. What I mean is if you've got it in you it's bound to come out no matter where you are or with whom even if you try to keep it back."

"Hundreds of women and men, too, hang around on the fringe, putting out dullish literature and art when they might get somewhere just being themselves. They think the will to do is talent and editors are fed up with them and you can't blame the editors. . . . I don't want to hurt you, darling—"

"I'm not hurt. I only thought maybe you'd like me more—"

He kissed her, laughing, calling her a red-headed goose. "One bunch of temperament is enough in this family. Your old man couldn't stand it if you changed so much as one of those adorable freckles on your cunning nose."

"Freckles!" she squealed, and moved out of the sun. She said no more about writing, but her thought turned the idea; often and often she was to wonder if she might learn to write.

As they drove back through the village a husky voice boomed Ken's name and he drew up to the curb in answer to the frantic signal of a large, youngish woman who promptly climbed on the running-board and kissed him.

"I heard you were married, dear boy. And is this the bride?"

A homely, mannish face turned to Eve and a big hand gripped hers as Ken introduced Miss Madge Morgan.

But Miss Morgan had only a moment's interest in little Mrs. Wilmer; she turned back to Ken and began to chatter shop in her booming, half-fellow voice.

"I'm spending the Summer here at the Inn," she told him, "and you must come to tea tomorrow. And your wife, of course," she added as an afterthought.

And when Eve would have declined she saw that Ken really wished to accept and so made no objection though all night a feeling kept haggard at her that now the honeymoon had been invaded by the great world of her husband's of which she knew so little—that now the honeymoon was over.

But certainly they would have tea with the expansive Miss Morgan who was, Ken explained, enormously wealthy and interested in art, if that was what he wished. She would learn to be interested in what interested him, to like what he liked—to play the game.

At Miss Morgan's tea party they encountered a fluffy blonde creature who was presented as Miss Pauline Southwick and always afterward addressed as Puss.

SCHMELING, DEMPSEY'S 'DOUBLE', NOW BACK IN AMERICA

GREETED AT N. Y. PIER BY 3,000 OF HIS ADMIRERS

6 OF 8 FIRST ROUND DAVIS CUP MATCHES PLAYED

2 YEARS AGO THE GERMAN CAME TO THIS COUNTRY AN UNKNOWN

IN 5 FIGHTS HERE HE CATA-PULTED SELF INTO HEAVY-WEIGHT TITLE FIGHT

New York, May 5. — (U.P.) — Max Schmeling, Jack Dempsey's German "double," is back in the United States, with the heavyweight championship as his objective.

Schmeling arrived Sunday aboard the S. S. New York of the Hamburg-American line from a nine months' stay, and was greeted at the pier by a cheering crowd of about 3,000.

Two years ago Schmeling came to this country an unknown and in five fights here catapulted himself into a match for the heavyweight championship.

Schmeling will meet Jack Sharkey of Boston at Yankee Stadium June 12 in a 15-round bout which is sanctioned by the Muldoon-Tunney trophy committee as the official match to determine Gene Tunney's successor.

Because of managerial tangles, Schmeling was to sign his own contract at Madison Square Garden today. Tomorrow he will be reinstated by the New York state athletic commission and granted a license to box in this state. He was suspended for his failure to go through with a bout against Phil Scott at Ebbets Field, but his reinstatement is a mere formality.

Weighing 190 pounds and laughing at rumors that he was out of condition, had a fractured ankle, a bad hand, etc., Schmeling said he had been in light training since February 28 at Biesenthal, 60 miles from Berlin. He said he expected to weigh 187 when he meets Sharkey.

Schmeling will start training at Endicott, N. Y., Wednesday. Five sparring partners, George Neron, Andy Wallace and Ted Krach, all of New York, and Leo and Andy Mitchell of California, have been picked.

While in Germany Schmeling played the hero's role in a motion picture, "Love in the Ring," but admitted he would rather fight than act.

"I like to fight," said Max. "I'll be glad to get back into the ring."

and Crabtree hit home runs for the visitors. Indianapolis and St. Paul, and Louisville and Minneapolis were idle because of rain.

BROOKLYN IS STEADILY CLIMBING TOWARD TOP IN NATIONAL

THESE 2 OUTSIDERS WORK WAY UP AMONG MAJOR LEAGUE CONTENDERS (By United Press)

With Cleveland leading the American League race and Brooklyn steadily climbing toward the top in the National League, two outsiders have worked their way up among the major league contenders.

Cleveland climbed into the American League lead Sunday when the Indians beat the Boston Red Sox in the tenth, 8-7. Luke Sewell started a 9th inning rally and drove in the winning run in the tenth.

Brooklyn won a double-header from the St. Louis Cardinals, 2-1 and 11-10, the second game going 13 innings and lengthened the Robins' winning streak to seven straight games. Brooklyn is now in fourth place, three games from the top.

Interest in the National League games Monday centered on the opening of the Giants-Pirates series at Pittsburgh. Remaining idle yesterday, the Pirates moved back into undisputed possession of the National League lead as the Giants lost to Cincinnati, 8 to 4. Joe Stripp, Reds' first baseman, wrecked the Giants by driving in six runs.

The Chicago Cubs defeated the Phillies, 8-7, in the other National League game Sunday. Lou Koupal's wild pitch in the ninth inning permitted Danny Taylor to score the winning run after Philadelphia had tied the score with a two-run rally in their half of the ninth.

With the score tied 1-1 in the 7th inning and the bases filled, George Haas tripped and the Philadelphia Athletics won their fourth straight game from Detroit, 7-1.

Seven runs in the second inning enabled the St. Louis Browns to beat Washington and knock the Senators out of the American League lead. Washington's four-run rally in the 9th fell two runs short of tying the count.

Babe Ruth hit his third home run of the season and the New York Yankees won their second game in a row from the Chicago White Sox. The victory elevated the Yankees to sixth place, their high water mark of the season.

New York, May 5. — (U.P.) — Max Schmeling, Jack Dempsey's German "double," back in the United States, with the heavyweight championship as his objective.

Schmeling arrived Sunday aboard the S. S. New York of the Hamburg-American line from a nine months' stay, and was greeted at the pier by a cheering crowd of about 3,000.

Two years ago Schmeling came to this country an unknown and in five fights here catapulted himself into a match for the heavyweight championship.

Schmeling will meet Jack Sharkey of Boston at Yankee Stadium June 12 in a 15-round bout which is sanctioned by the Muldoon-Tunney trophy committee as the official match to determine Gene Tunney's successor.

Because of managerial tangles, Schmeling was to sign his own contract at Madison Square Garden today. Tomorrow he will be reinstated by the New York state athletic commission and granted a license to box in this state. He was suspended for his failure to go through with a bout against Phil Scott at Ebbets Field, but his reinstatement is a mere formality.

Weighing 190 pounds and laughing at rumors that he was out of condition, had a fractured ankle, a bad hand, etc., Schmeling said he had been in light training since February 28 at Biesenthal, 60 miles from Berlin. He said he expected to weigh 187 when he meets Sharkey.

Schmeling will start training at Endicott, N. Y., Wednesday. Five sparring partners, George Neron, Andy Wallace and Ted Krach, all of New York, and Leo and Andy Mitchell of California, have been picked.

While in Germany Schmeling played the hero's role in a motion picture, "Love in the Ring," but admitted he would rather fight than act.

"I like to fight," said Max. "I'll be glad to get back into the ring."

Modernizing the Home Benefits the Entire Family

Character Improves With Modernization

Both Children and Grown-ups Get the Benefit

Social welfare workers who call on a varied number of homes and come in contact with a wide range of persons assert that they can tell the character of the family they are visiting by the appearance of the home. The curtains on the windows even serve as an index to character.

Even a casual investigation proves that there is more than a grain of truth in this statement.

The character of the family does shine out through the home and the general type of person can usually be told by the house they live in.

The honest, hard-working man may be living in a poorer neighborhood, but his home is spic and span. It is as clean as soap and water will make it, and outside a few flowers and a well trimmed lawn speak of pride of possession.

Home an Index to Character

The type of house one lives in is often an index to the character of the owner. The man who lives in a drab, depressing, gloomy house is very often a man who is unprogressive and backward in a business way. He is not forging ahead, but rather is slipping or standing still.

On the other hand, the man who lives in a house that is modern in appearance, with a well cared for lawn, is often a man who is progressive and on his toes in a business way.

The environment in which a person lives plays its part in moulding character. If that environment is cheerful, if the house he lives in is smartly up-to-date, if the neighborhood is filled with houses that speak of modern architecture, the influence upon the owner is such that he responds most satisfactorily from a material standpoint.

The Whole Family Benefits

Not only the man of the house, but the whole family benefits by these pleasant surroundings. Environment plays an important part in the life of the child. Their growing characters are swayed by the atmosphere in which they live. The parents have a duty to perform and the keeping of a pleasant, cheerful home is an important factor in moulding the character of their children.

The influence of modernization of the lives of the occupants of a house cannot be estimated by tangible means. It is not possible to state definitely that the remodeling of a house is going to perform a certain part in improving the character and financial standing of the owner.

And yet an influence for good is there. It is silently and persistently working for the betterment of the family.

Community Also Improved

Just as the improvement in the home is influencing the family, so in turn is the modernizing of a house doing a certain amount of good for the community. In the last analysis, a city is but a collection of homes and anything that improves a part is working for the good of the whole.

Modernizing lifts up a city out of its ordinary commonplace position and transforms it into a live progressive community, filled with busy individuals striving for their betterment.

A city filled with attractive, well designed homes indicates to strangers that the town is a good place to live in, that it is an enterprising, progressive community, that its citizens are a busy, hustling collection of individuals.

Modernizing plays a definite part not only in moulding the characters of the home owner and his family, but also in boosting the community in which the owner lives.

Glamorous Spain

Spain, it is safe to say, is richer in romance, in luxuriant natural beauty, from the peaks of the Pyrenees to the orange groves of Andalusia, in priceless gems of architecture, in relics of widely differing civilizations, ancient, medieval and modern, in the abundance of local fetes of gay color and charm and in the pride with which the people regard their glorious history, than any other country. The lure of glamorous Spain, once it has made itself felt, will never be lost.

Contrast the New With the Old

Sweeping exterior lines add charm to this home. Once it was the unlovely house pictured at the right. Here again modernization proves its case.

ONCE ORDINARY HOUSE NOW DELIGHTFUL HOME

The casual passer-by would never suspect that the home to the left was built years ago when the Spanish American War was a live topic of conversation. Its sweeping roof lines, pleasing arch over the garage, drive and quaint little stoop, all speak of modern architecture.

Yet this house was once the common-place dwelling illustrated below. These before and after pictures present forcefully the advantages of modernization in making the old home up to date.

Once an ordinary house, the kind found on any street in a residential neighborhood; now a delightful home, unusual in its irregular lines and odd architectural touches. That's the story of this pleasant home.

The modernization of this house not only changed the exterior lines of the dwelling to such an extent that the house becomes almost unrecognizable, but when so doing an extra room has been added by enclosing the old open front porch.

Across the front now appears a charming sun room lighted by two bays of windows. The main entrance to the house lies off this room. A narrow stoop—practically a step—leads down to the garage driveway which also serves as the walk leading to the public sidewalk. Such an arrangement as this saves the expense of a formal concrete walk and gives an unconventional touch which is in keeping with the atmosphere of the dwelling. A tiny shelter having a pitch roof, relieves the doorway of its bare look.

New Roof Lines

While basically the roof lines of the house have been changed very little, the extension of the face of the original gable to form a sweeping arch services to give the house a low, clinging effect. An archway over the drive, leading to the garage makes the appearance of the dwelling from the street an unusual one.

The two windows on the second floor at the front have not been changed, but above them in the gable a ventilator has been added to give air to the attic, and also to aid the architectural effect.

On the right side of the house a dormer has been added with an opening containing two double hung windows. The lights in the upper sash have been divided into three panes, as this effect tends to eliminate the barrenness of one broad pane of glass.

New Sash Lights Dining Room

PAINT MAKES HOME LOOK NEW

One of the points brought out in The Daily Dispatch's series of feature articles on Home Modernizing is the influence the appearance of the homes plays in expressing the spirit of the community.

A town that is alive and progressive is one that has clean, well cared for homes, state modernization authorities. They point out that a town filled with dingy, weather-beaten houses is invariably behind the times. Its citizens are not energetic and prosperous.

"I am thoroughly in accord with the ideas of these modernization experts," states J. W. Durr of the Brainerd Paint & Wallpaper Co. "I have become very much interested in the Home Modernizing movement as sponsored by The Daily Dispatch and feel that the series of weekly pages will do much to keep our city to the front as one that is progressive and on its toes."

"The value of good paint in the modernizing of homes should be emphasized. I have seen many old time houses that were carefully painted to subdue the ginger bread trimming so that when the job was done the house looked ten or fifteen years newer."

"A modernized house deserves a good coat of paint for paint is the preserver of both wood and metal. Practically every part of the house should receive the touch of the painter before it is completed. Both outside and in this is true."

"The family who cannot go ahead with their modernization plans can afford to paint the exterior anyway, for it is sound insurance to reduce deterioration of the material. Our organization will be glad to advise with home owners on the best colors to use to make their houses look attractive."

"HOW LONG HAS THIS BEEN GOING ON?"

Needed repairs on your farm will stop leaks far more costly than this—

Take paint for instance. You probably think of it as something that merely makes your building LOOK BETTER, but improved appearance is one of its least important purposes. IT GUARDS YOUR HARD EARNED PROPERTY FROM THE RAVAGES OF ROT AND RUST. You are paying for paint whether you buy it or not! Why not use it, and save your property?

Protecting what you already have is just as important as struggling to get more

Think of paint as an INVESTMENT. Unpainted buildings depreciate at an average rate of 7 1/2% per year. Paint cuts this depreciation down to 2 1/2%. That's a saving of 5% per year on the total value of your buildings! The savings of a few months will pay for enough paint to protect your property from ROT and RUST for 5 years. Don't try to get along without it—the cost is too great.

HEALTH SERVICE SOCIETY NEEDS

Requires New White Material for Use in Obstetrical Cases

MADE INTO LAYETTES

Society Also Asks Ladies of Brainerd to Assist in Many Lines of Work of Society

The Brainerd Health Service society has need of used or new white material for use in making obstetrical packages, which they wish to keep on hand for the use of city and county nurses in their work of helping the worthy poor of Crow Wing county. Anyone having used or new white material are also asked to donate same to the society to be made up into the packages or into layettes for the use of the nurses.

The society also desires to extend to the ladies of Brainerd a cordial invitation to join in the work of this organization. The membership fee is only 50 cents a year, not a large sum, but a great amount of good may be accomplished by adding 50 cents together with those of a hundred or more members.

The work calls for a very small amount of ones time—only two or three hours of one afternoon each month. A great deal of assistance to the nurses has been accomplished, which is appreciated by them as well as the mothers in the homes where this help is given.

The work room is a light, pleasant room. At the April meeting 20 ladies were present representing eight churches, and a satisfying amount of work was accomplished in the two hours spent there. All the protestant churches of the city are urged to appoint two ladies to represent them in the society. However whether a representative or not, all are invited to become members and assist in the work. The money paid in as membership dues is used only to aid the needy sick of the county. The society must therefore raise money of some kind for its own immediate needs and for the materials in the packages and layettes. This extra fund is raised by the ladies serving coffee and sandwiches or cake at each meeting, for which a silver offering is taken.

There is also a constant demand for used clothing of all kinds, and all housewives are asked to keep the society in mind when housecleaning and finding garments for which they have no further use. All having clothing for the society are asked to call Mrs. Margaret Halvorson or Mrs. E. Haake, 509 E street N. E., phone number 1196-F.

The regular monthly meeting of the society is held on the first Tuesday of each month at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon, at the city hall in the room formerly used as a community rest room.

BAND PLAYS AT LAST RITES OF WM. NURMIO

Members of the Brainerd Municipal band attended the funeral services of William Nurmio, boilermaker in the Northern Pacific shops, Saturday afternoon in a body. The services were held in the Finnish hall and the building was filled with friends who wished to pay their last respects to Mr. Nurmio.

Mr. Nurmio had been a member of the Brainerd Municipal band for the past 25 years. Chris Elvig, president of the band, spoke of Mr. Nurmio's years of service and loyalty to the band. The remainder of the services were held in the Finnish language.

The band played three numbers at the funeral, at the start and close of the service, and a funeral march as the pallbearers tenderly carried away the body of their departed comrade and neighbor.

TRIANGULATION SURVEY

Quin Blackburn Writes Miss Louise Barrett of His Work With Byrd Party

Miss Louise Barrett, principal of the Whittier school, has received an interesting letter from Quin Blackburn which was written when they were five days out of Dunedin, New Zealand. He says in part:

"You probably know more of our work through the medium of the New York Times and other papers than I could write you. However, I will say my assignment was a triangulation survey of the Bay of Whales and adjacent coast lines. This proved very interesting in view of the means of transportation which were dog teams, and unique camp equipment."

May telephone directories of the Brainerd exchange of the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. were on the desks and hooks of 1,948 city homes and business establishments today and in 591 rural dwellings.

The increase of 20 telephones in the city from last December is another indication of the continued growth of Brainerd.

The directories, published by the Brainerd Dispatch Co., were arranged and distributed one month earlier this year because of the relocation of several cable lines of the company causing the changing of many numbers, these being included in the new directory. Henry D. Hoffmann, manager of the Brainerd exchange, said today.

STARTS GARDENING AS NEW ENDEAVOR

Joe Kiebler Gets Big Kick Out of Life by Working in Garden

WITH N. P. 50 YEARS

If Not in His Garden Most Likely He's Playing His Horn

Joseph Kiebler, horticulturist and vegetable gardener.

No. Joe is not hanging out a shingle but this tip is given to those who can't reach him by telephone or by knocking on the door of his house.

Go around to the back of his house at 305 North 9th street and its dollars to doughnuts you'll find him at work in his garden and its better odds than that he'll have a wide smile on his face. Or if he's not engaged in gardening he'll be found studiously poring over a seed catalogue.

And if perchance, he's not in his garden, there's every reason to believe by the sounds emanating from the house that he's playing on his big bass horn.

A few days ago Joe Kiebler was hard at work at the Northern Pacific railway shops. Today he is retired on a pension after 50 years of service for the railroad. And that interest taken in his work at the shops where he was a foreman is manifested in his garden. He says he is getting a great kick out of life, what with working in his garden and seeing his flowers and vegetables grow, playing with the Brainerd Municipal band, and visiting with his friends.

Friday evening Mr. Kiebler was happily surprised at his home when the group of men who had worked under him as foreman for 35 years gave him a farewell party.

Speeches were made and high compliments paid Mr. Kiebler on his work in the shops.

On behalf of his friends Peter Bislar presented Mr. Kiebler with a Cogswell chair.

Piano selections were rendered by L. J. Erickson and "Joe" entertained the "boys" with a group of songs.

Refreshments offered by Wm. Stanley Canham were served at midnight. Those present were Albert Malick, Christ Elvig, L. J. Erickson, Andrew Nelson, S. W. Canham, Robert Nelson, Andrew Lund, J. P. Nelson, H. W. Meifert, Ben Kleis, Harry J. Bouchard, P. M. Bislar, John Witham.

SUPERMAN George Herman Ruth is now on the first lap of his thirty-seventh year and in the eighteenth season of as whole-souled play as one can put into baseball. His comparatively slender legs are still propelling the Babe's 220 pounds around the diamond—creaking every now and then with common "charley horses" or other ailments that reveal time's ravages.

The Bam's eyes—as remarkable as ever peered at a pitcher—are still those of a champion sharpshooter; his arms and shoulders respond instinctively to what he sees; and only the legs—potent indeed in properly co-ordinated hitting—are uncertain. If the Ruthian props hold up, Babe will retain his home run laurels, but if they go back on him, 1930 will mark definitely the beginning of the end of the playing career of the greatest steady gate attraction sport has known thus far.

Incidentally, most critics agree that 36 and 37 are the critical ages for baseball stars. In all strenuous sports, the best of them begin to slip usually at 30. And in all lines, the legs go first—they lose much of their spring and are subject more often to strains.

Jack Dempsey at 32 was "washed up" only because his legs "went dead" after a round or two. He probably would have regained the world's championship after he had knocked down Gene Tunney for the mooted "long count" if his tired legs could have flashed but a part of their one-time speed and power. But Tunney, still dazed, wisely ran away from the Ol' Mauler for the rest of the knock-down round and Jack was not fast enough to catch the champion. Dempsey's legs, as much as that "long count," saved the crown for Tunney.

We emphasize the tragedy of Dempsey's legs because the drama of Ruth's now affords one of sport's most interesting discussions. Jack was through when his pins lost their spring. Fully four years older than Dempsey was at that time and having taxed his legs far more than Jack did, Ruth is right now approaching the crisis in his extraordinary career. Yes, there are more eyes critically watching his legs than ever studied "the immortals" of Frankie Bailey or Claudette Colbert, selah!
